

SMEs smile on seminars too

Surrey-based IT solutions provider ramsac runs regular events to educate local SMEs on the latest technologies that can help to grow their businesses. Its next South East Professional Services Forum, to be held on 15th September, will focus on mobile working.

The company has run these forums for two years, providing the opportunity for potential customers to meet industry specialists as well as meet like-minded people from the local business community. To encourage a good attendance, the events are run in the evening, beginning at 5pm at ramsac's offices.

MD Robert May, explains: "As Microsoft launches its latest service pack that will provide email, calendar and contact information to be accessed via a mobile phone, it has never been easier to remotely enable your workforce. This forum aims to offer Surrey SMEs key information and advice on mobile working as well as an excellent opportunity to network with other local companies."
